Preview of highlights and happenings at Paris Déco Off

Nearly 70 showroom windows will be previewing collections for international designers and editors at the fourth edition of Paris Déco Off show, which runs Jan. 17- 23, concurrent with Maison & Objet. Here's a sampling of what's happening over the course of the week: To kick off the week's events, Deco Off will sponsor a charitable concert of international classical music in honor of the Church Saint-Germain-des-Prés on Thursday, Jan. 1...

DC Design House sets location and designers

Built by GTM Architects, the 14,000 s.f. house at 2507 Foxhall Road in Washington DC, will be home to the 6th edition of DC Design House, set to open on April 14. Twenty-two local designers and companies have been chosen to transform the house, which boasts eight bedrooms, 12 bathrooms, an infinity pool, media room, exercise room and sauna. The 2013 design house team is as follows: Entry Foyer: Farrow & Ball Living Room: Camille Saum Powder Room: Terri...

London Fair takes inspiration from Old Hollywood

Over 140 exhibitors will join together for the winter edition of the Decorative Antiques & Textiles Fair in Battersea Park, London from Jan. 22-27. This year's old Hollywood glamour theme will be represented by glittering waterfall chandeliers, mirrored furniture, curvaceous sofas upholstered in velvets and 'hostess' chairs in satin button-back upholstery—all set against an Art Deco backdrop of black, white and silver. Birds-eye maple, s...

Seattle showroom tests new 'Kravet Lab' concept

The Kravet Showroom in the Seattle Design Center has expanded to include the new Kravet Lab concept, a space which opened in late October and acts as a working design office as well as an edited showroom, offering boutique-like samplings of Kravet, Lee Jofa, Groundworks and Brunschwig & Fils fabrics. "We wanted to provide a user-friendly work space for designers by having big work tables and private meetings places so that they can actually work on site a...

Christmas tree fashioned for London's Design Museum

Fashion designer Mary Katrantzou has designed a one-of-a kind Christmas tree for the Design Museum in London this season. The tree incorporates patterns from her Fall/Winter 2012 Collection, which was inspired by everyday objects. The 2D design is visible on the museum's outer wall, measures over 9 feet tall. The tree combines Katrantzou's trademark bold patterns with Christmas sparkle from design partner Swarovski. "The print was inspired by fo...
